Regional law firm recognises excellence

Marino Moller Lawyers is undergoing a transformation. Positioning themselves as Regional Lawyers that make a difference, the firm has broadened its legal base and is reaching a new level of maturity.

Today Marino Moller Lawyers employs nearly 40 staff, including solicitors, a conveyance team and support personnel. With offices in 5 locations from Babinda to Port Douglas it makes them one of the regions leading legal firms.

"Succession planning is an important philosophy of the firm and we are fortunate to have a talented team of solicitors" remarks Brett Moller. "Charlie and I recognize excellence within the firm, and as such have promoted Linda Barlow to Partner and Bob Owen, Rose Davies and Belinda Lowe to Associate level".

The Port Douglas office is also expanding thanks to the experience and success of Arthur Timms, Marino Mollers head consultant in the Shire. Arthur has spent over 35 years in Cairns and the Douglas Shire, expanding upon his extensive local knowledge and business contacts. Arthur has had a role in virtually every major development in Port Douglas in the past 25 years including work with real estate developer Christopher Skase and John Morris, the father figure of the Douglas Shire before the region became world renowned. Arthur has also had a close association with the rural community for many years.

Marino Moller Lawyers is a true local firm. Charlie Marino established a legal practice in Cairns back in 1988. He expanded that practice by opening a branch office in Gordonvale in 1993 and brought on board, to develop the Gordonvale practice, a local solicitor Brett Moller. In 1999 Charlie and Brett entered into partnership to develop the legal practice. Their aim is to provide a legal service that is available, affordable and approachable – to all within Far North Queensland.
